I've been following some other tutorials and managed to get an image combined with specific text to display on load and a different image and combined text after refresh.

But now i want to connect it to a button so the random combination of text and image only show on click, the button doesn't do anything.

Javascript in the head tags

<input class="Randombutton" style="float: left;" type="button"
value="Randomize" onclick="randomImg()">

<script> (function randomImg() {
var quotes = [
{
text: "BIO1",
img: "images/captainamerica.jpg"
{
text: "BIO2",
img: "images/hulk.jpg",
{
text: "BIO3",
img: "images/spiderman.jpg",
{
text: "BIO4",
img: "images/blackwidow.jpg",
{
text: "BIO5",
img: "images/ironman.png",
];
var quote = quotes[Math.floor(Math.random() * quotes.length)];
document.getElementById("quote").innerHTML =
' + quote text + '' +
Run code snippet Expand snippet

Any help is very much appreciated. Thank you.

Where's your element with the ID of ' quote ' ? Why do you have a closing script tag after your button? Why are you immediately invoking your function in the head of the page? – j08691 Dec 14 '18 at 17:55

Sorry we are being thought a specific (wrong) way in college by the lecturer. Your comment helped me realise simple mistakes. Thank you! – Nathan Dec 14 '18 at 18:02

Does this meet what you need?

```
function randomImg() {
var quotes = [
{
text: "BIO1",
img: "images/captainamerica.jpg"
{
text: "BIO2",
img: "images/hulk.jpg",
